

Think we're about to rest on our laurels? Think again.

We were thrilled to win Recruitment Consultancy of the Year at the 2007 Computing Awards for Excellence. For a company that formed less than three years ago, it's a major accomplishment. After all, the awards recognise only the very highest standards of achievement in IT.

While it's great to be rewarded for our contribution to the industry, we're not about to sit back and relax. Each and every one of us at ReThink has a long-term stake in the success of the business, which means we're personally driven to be the best in the market.

Our collective pursuit of this goal has already made us one of the UK's fastest-growing independent recruitment companies with revenues approaching £30m and more than 100 staff. But as we see it, this is just the beginning.

We've got a winning strategy and a winning team. Now we're ready to build on them. That means giving our consultants the freedom to act decisively in the interests of clients. And pairing our clients with some of the most experienced consultants in IT recruitment. It's simple, but more importantly, it works. Just ask the judges.

If you're looking to work with the best, or for the best, please call one of our directors: Michael Bennett (London 020 7367 4444), Ian Blair (Bristol 0117 317 8888), Andy Lord (Manchester 0161 214 7450) or Rob O'Callaghan (Birmingham 0845 257 0220). You can also learn more about us at
